ABSTRACT

An apparatus and method for incrementally performing a remote loading that includes dependent reader modules for analyzing the object file according to an object type and detecting an independent linking information and independent linker module for receiving a detected liking information, downloading the object file to a target system and rearranging target modules of the target system.